M. Tillier called attention to reports in the American press some time ago that the French government had caused 200,000 tons of Alsatian potash to be shipped to this country on vessels fiying the French flag. Passenger Ships Due

Prospects for peace in the mine strike knocked 25 per cent off the rate for ships to bring over British coal yesterday. After reaching a high mark of 17 shillings lest Thursday, it was reported that several English boats were placed at 12 to 13 shillings. The Shipping Board chartered one vessel at a figure that was said to be slightly better than the British.

The reason for the slump is that few ships can be obtained now for delivery earlier than September. It is calculated by importers that if the strike is settled immediately the shortage of fuel will be cut down considerably by that earlier than September.
